BATTING & PITCHING CHAMPIONSHIP QUALIFICATIONS

A player must have a minimum of 502 plate appearances (at-bats, walks, hit-by-pitch, sacrifices, sacrifice flies and catcher's interference) to qualify for a major league batting-percentage championship.

If a batter falls short of 502 plate appearances, he might still be determined the batting champion if by adding a sufficient number of at-bats to his record to bring his plate appearances up to 502, his average based on these additional at-bats is still the highest in the league. His actual average, however, would be the official.

To qualify for the earned-run average (ERA) title, a pitcher must pitch a minimum of 162 innings.

Calvin R. Griffith

PRESIDENT AND CHAIRMAN OF THE BOARD

The success of the Minnesota Twins in 1979 stands as vivid proof that sound baseball operations are still the answer to competitive quality on the field, regardless of the modern-day penchant for near-insane bidding for free-agent ballplayers . . . no matter what their level of talent!

Twins' president Calvin Griffith has largely refrained from entering the free-agent bidding in the belief that the experience he's gathered over some 58 years of major league baseball involvement will stand him and the staunch fans of his Twins in much better stead over the long haul.

In 19 seasons of Mr. Griffith's tried and proven methods of American League operations, the Twins have a winning-percentage of .523, a figure bettered only by Baltimore and New York. And since the signing of the most recent basic agreement with the players' association in 1976, the Twins are one of just seven A. L. clubs to play better-than-.500 baseball. Two of the other six clubs . . . Baltimore and Kansas City . . . approach the situation in much the same fashion as does Mr. Griffith.

The National League's two division-winners in 1979, Cincinnati and Pittsburgh, have also largely stayed out of the free-agent bidding.

Twins' attendance in 1979 reached 1,070,521, and the club turned a nice profit . . . the third year in a row that sound baseball operations resulted in a black-ink fiscal situation.

It'll be 20 years come October 26 that Mr. Griffith made the decision to move his then-Washington Senators team to Minnesota to become the Twins. He had taken over the operation of the club upon the death of his uncle, Hall of Famer Clark Griffith, on October 27, 1955. Over the next five seasons, it became apparent to Calvin that Horace Greeley was right when he said, "Go west, young man!" It's a move he's never regretted.

Calvin and his sister, now Mrs. Thelma Griffith Haynes, were adopted by Clark Griffith upon the death of their father in 1920, in Montreal, which was their birthplace. They moved to Washington and Calvin got his start in baseball as batboy for the 1922 Senators. Along the way, he was educated at Staunton Military Academy and George Washington University, and put in time with the Chattanooga and Charlotte minor league affiliates where he gained experience ranging from catcher to manager to club president!

Mr. Griffith and Mrs. Haynes are co-owners of the Twins. They're assisted in the day-to-day operations of the club by an executive committee consisting of vice-presidents Howard Fox, Clark Griffith, II, and Bruce Haynes, as well as the club's other three directors . . . Gabe Murphy, Wheelock Whitney and Gene Young.

Manager

MAUCH, Gene William — No. 4

Born November 18, 1925, in Salina, Kansas. Height: 5 ft., 10 in. Weight: 173 lbs. Batted and threw righthanded. Married. Lives in Rancho Mirage, California.

The 1979 season was a definitely satisfying one for Gene Mauch. Mauch took a totally-unheralded club out of Orlando last spring and jumped right off to the top of the heap in American League West.

While their stay at the top lasted just until May 26, at no time were Mauch's Twins out of contention until they were mathematically eliminated on September 25 . . . five days short of the end of the season.

A lot of factors were contributory to the exciting season the Twins put before their fans in '79 . . . Jerry Koosman's return to 20-game form, Roy Smalley's brilliant first half, John Castino's defensive play, Mike Marshall's availability, Ken Landreaux's all-round productive play, Butch Wynegar's return to form, the winning ability of Geoff Zahn, the emergence of Rob Wilfong, Ron Jackson's steadiness . . . but none were more responsible than the manner in which Mauch manipulated his players and his lineups.

Gene platooned at several positions and got maximum production at each, even though he himself avows that he would prefer to pencil in a set lineup every day. His club set a 162-game American League record for doubleplays, even though the pivot man might be Wilfong or Bobby Randall. Until his back began acting up on him, Mike Cubbage shared third base with Castino to the point that John's feet were on the ground by the time it was necessary for him to take over full-time. Pete Redfern did a platoon-job of sorts, holding the other club time after time until the situation was right for Marshall. There were several various switches in the outfield, each invariably productive.

Mauch is the dean of current major league managers. This is his 21st season at the helm of a big league club, although he will actually have completed 20 full seasons on the bench on or about July 26. All-time, Gene is ninth, a couple of seasons shy of Joe McCarthy.

Now in the second season of his second three-year contract with the Twins, Mauch has managed for 3107 games, also ninth-best on the all-time list. Here again, McCarthy is his next target at 3489. Mauch's teams have won 1470 games over the years. Only ten have done better, including Twins' patriarch Clark Griffith, who won 1491.

Mauch came to the Twins on November 24, 1975, after 16 seasons in the National League, three of them as Manager of the Year.

In his playing days, Gene was an infielder with six different major league clubs from 1943 to 1957. He also saw service with both the St. Paul and Minneapolis minor league teams.

Gene is married to the former Nina Lee Taylor, whom he met in junior high school in Los Angeles. They have a married daughter and a granddaughter. Twins' shortstop Roy Smalley is the son of Mauch's sister, Jolene, who met Roy's father when he was Gene's Chicago Cub teammate.

GORYL, John Albert 'Groucho' No. 45

Born October 21, 1933, in Lonsdale, Rhode Island. Height: 5 ft., 10 in. Weight: 185 lbs. Batted and threw righthanded. Married. Lives in Orlando, Florida.

After testing a number of individuals at the vital third base coaching spot over the past several seasons, Twins' manager Gene Mauch turned the job over to Johnny Goryl in 1979 . . . and the search was over! Goryl did an excellent job in all respects. He was especially impressive in the aggressive and highly-visible manner in which he signaled his baserunners, taking all element of doubt from their minds as they either pulled up at third or streaked for home. John displayed good instincts, an unteachable but absolutely essential talent in a good third base coach, but he also showed the moxey acquired from twelve seasons of experience as a minor league manager . . . a job in which third base coaching goes with the territory! Last fall, Goryl served as a coach for manager Tom Kelly's Clearwater Twins of the Florida Instructional League, who finished second in the league's Northern Division, two games back of Montreal.

KUEHL, Karl Otto — No. 41

Born September 5, 1937, in Monterey Park, California. Height: 5 ft., 11 in. Weight: 183 lbs. Batted and threw lefthanded. Married. Lives in St. Petersburg, Florida.

A dedicated baseball man who's served in virtually every capacity in the player-development end of the game, Karl Kuehl comes up for his hard-earned major league pension on April 30, this year. The Twins' first base coach has been associated with Gene Mauch ever since Kuehl joined the Montreal organization as manager of their Quebec City affiliate in 1972 . . . except for 1976, when Karl succeeded Gene as Expos' manager. Kuehl's baseball savvy became apparent early in his career as he became a minor league manager at age 21! Still a young man, Karl's reputation as a major leaguer on the tennis courts is well documented around the league.

PASCUAL, Camilo Alberto, Jr. — No. 42

Born January 20, 1934, in Havana, Cuba. Height: 5 ft., 11 in. Weight: 185 lbs. Batted and threw righthanded. Married. Lives in Miami, Florida.

A standout pitcher for the greater part of 18 seasons in the major leagues, Camilo Pascual is now into his third season as Twins' pitching coach and figures to qualify for the maximum 20-year benefits in the Players' Pension Plan on September 11. A devoted family man and one of the game's real gentlemen, Pascual reflects every kind of positive image that baseball would have its personnel, at all levels, represent. His work with Twins' pitchers over the past two seasons has been just exemplary. Camilo took over a pitching staff that wound up 12th in the league in 1977. He improved them just a little to 10th place in 1978, but last year Twins' pitchers could collectively claim to be 7th-best in the loop. In 1980, the Twins' staff should have just the proper balance of youth and experience that makes for success. Pascual, working hand-in-hand with manager Gene Mauch, won't settle for less than that.

ZIMMERMAN, Gerald Robert 'Zim' No. 43

Born September 21, 1934, in Omaha, Nebraska. Height: 6 ft., 2 in. Weight: 190 lbs. Batted and threw righthanded. Married. Lives in Milwaukie, Oregon.

It doesn't seem to take Jerry Zimmerman long to become an 'elder statesman.' After seven seasons as a Twins' catcher in the '60s, Zim's dry wit had earned him a reputation as the 'sage' of the bullpen. And now, in 1980, Jerry finds himself in the unique position of being one of just four members of the present Twins' aggregation who date back as far as the beginning of the 1976 season . . . the other 'graybeards' being manager Gene Mauch, infielder Bobby Randall and catcher Butch Wynegar. In addition, Zim becomes a 20-year man where Player Pension benefits are concerned at the end of the current season. The terms 'elder statesman, sage and graybeard,' however, are misleading when applied to the youthful-looking Zimmerman, and they're certainly not reflected in his tireless activity on the ballfield, day after day. Jerry's one of those 'first guys on the field, last guys off.'

ADAMS, Glenn Charles — OF No. 8

Born October 4, 1947, in Northbridge, Massachusetts. Height: 6 ft. Weight: 185 lbs. Bats left, throws right. Married. Lives in Amarillo, Texas.

Among the more important ingredients in the makeup of a good hitter is 'pride.' Glenn Adams is a good hitter.

Glenn Adams is one of the better hitters in baseball. When his average dropped 80 points from 1977 to 1978, Adams' pride stepped in and took over. Glenn made it plain right at the start of spring training in 1979 that the 'real' Glenn Adams was the player who batted .338 in 1977, and that the 'real' Glenn Adams would be apparent to all during spring training or he wouldn't ask manager Gene Mauch to include his name on Mauch's Opening Day roster. Some weeks later, when it came time to open the 1979 season, the figure '.410' was listed after Adams' name in the batting average column of the final spring training stat sheet. The 'real' Glenn Adams didn't stop there, but kept up the pace all season long to post his name once again among the league's elite . . . the '.300 hitters.' As a designated-hitter, Glenn batted .316, second in the league among those with 100 at-bats or more to Don Baylor's .349. Adams was also second on the Twins in 'game-winning-rbi,' a new official statistic in 1979. He had 11 to Ken Landreaux's 12. Defensively, Glenn appeared in 54 games in the outfield. His forte, however, is hitting. He has a 41-for-147, .279, career pinch-hitting average. He was especially tough vs. Seattle in '79, belting Mariner pitchers at a .545-clip, 12 hits in 22 at-bats.

BACSIK, Michael James 'Mike' P No. 27

Born April 1, 1952, in Dallas, Texas. Height: 6 ft., 2 in. Weight: 195 lbs. Bats and throws righthanded. Married. Lives in Dallas.

An injury to Geoff Zahn brought righthander Mike Bacsik back to the majors on May 4, 1979, and the one-time Texas Ranger paid dividends with his work for the Twins over the balance of the season. Bacsik was used primarily in long-relief situations, and in his 4 victories he pitched a total of 16 innings on a log of 3 hits, no runs! Mike had an excellent spring training season with the Twins in '79. As a result of that and an impressive three weeks of work in the International League, he was tabbed for big league duty when Zahn went on the shelf. After six seasons in the Texas organization, Bacsik accepted a job in private business and had all but decided to retire from baseball when the Twins traded lefty Mac Scarce to the Rangers for him on December 11, 1978. Except for his first season, Mike's minor league experience through the 1978 season was almost entirely as a starter. In the majors, the opposite has been true. Of his 63 big league appearances, only 3 (in 1975) have been in starting roles. Bacsik, an excellent golfer, owns a degree in business administration and marketing from Trinity University in San Antonio, Texas.

BUTERA, Salvatore Philip 'Sal' C No. 11

Born September 25, 1952, in Richmond Hill, New York. Height: 6 ft. Weight: 192 lbs. Bats and throws righthanded. Single. Lives in Bohemia, New York.

Coming off the finest batting season of his career, well-built Sal Butera figures prominently in Twins' plans for 1980. Butera now has eight years of minor league catching experience to draw upon. He trained with the Twins in 1978 and '79, so is no stranger to the club's big league braintrust. A discovery of Twins' New York-area scout Herb Stein, Sal is an accomplished receiver. In recent seasons, he's become a productive hitter as well. A contact type, Butera has fanned only 213 times in 2077 minor league at-bats . . . an excellent ratio of 1 for every 9.8 trips to the plate. Sal enjoyed the rare feat of three doubles in a game at Rochester, May 15, 1979. Last fall, he played with the Clearwater Twins of the Florida Instructional League.

CASTINO, John Anthony 'Cas' 3B No. 2

Born October 23, 1954, in Evanston, Illinois. Height: 5 ft., 11 in. Weight: 175 lbs. Bats and throws righthanded. Married. Lives in Orlando, Florida.

John Castino added his name to an impressive list of Twins' predecessors for American League rookie honors in 1979 when he tied with Toronto's Alfredo Griffin in the official vote of the Baseball Writers Association of America. The tie was an almost unprecedented happening . . . San Diego's Butch Metzger and Cincinnati's Pat Zachry tied for National League honors in 1976 . . . but it put Castino on the same team with Tony Oliva and Rod Carew as previous Twins' winners of the honor. It also tossed John into the company of Bert Blyleven and Butch Wynegar, who once earned rookie pitcher and rookie player honors, respectively, in the annual vote of players taken by The Sporting News. It goes without saying, of course, that Castino was voted the Bill Boni Award as the Twins' top rookie by the Twin Cities Chapter of the BBWAA. Right from the start in '79, even in spring training, John showed that his defensive play was going to be something to behold. He started the season in a platoon situation with incumbent third sacker Mike Cubbage. Back problems beset Cubbage, however, and Castino took over the spot on a regular basis on May 15, Cubbage starting only 30 games at third from that point. Although he was guilty of a throwing error from time to time, it was John's range, both left and right, that 'left 'em gaping' around the league. He was a shoo-in choice as third baseman on Topps Chewing Gum's 21st-Annual Major League Rookie All-Star Team, as well as on the squad selected by Baseball Digest. In 1978, he won the Silver Glove Award from The Sporting News as the top-fielding third baseman in the minor leagues. Castino didn't make his mark strictly with his glove, however. Only Bill Sample (.292) of Texas, Jeff Leonard (.290) of Houston, Scot Thompson (.289) of the Chicago Cubs, and Griffin (.287) outhit him among those major league rookies with 300-or-more at-bats. John's peak offensive performance came against Kansas City on September 5, when he collected three singles and a triple for his first big league 4-hit day. The triple was one of eight he picked up over the season, a club-leading figure. A real highlight, however, for Castino came on May 15, when his first-ever major league homer was a 7th-inning inside-the-park job to centerfield off Texas' Sparky Lyle. During the past off-season, John continued his studies toward a degree in communications from Florida's Rollins College.

CORBETT, Douglas Mitchell 'Doug' P No. 23

Born November 14, 1952, in Sarasota, Florida. Height: 6 ft., 1 in. Weight: 185 lbs. Bats and throws righthanded. Single. Lives in Sarasota.

A one-time University of Florida star, righthander Doug Corbett was drafted by the Twins last December from the roster of Cincinnati's AAA farm at Indianapolis, where he was a standout in relief the past two seasons. Corbett was signed originally by the Kansas City Royals as a free agent after he'd finished his collegiate career in May of 1974. He was picked up by the Reds the following year. A reliefer throughout his career, Doug led the American Association with 12 saves in 1978, and in 1979 he was third in ERA, while leading the circuit in games pitched. Corbett played last winter for the Mayaguez club of the Puerto Rican League, where his manager was ex-Twins' skipper Cal Ermer, and where Doug led the circuit with a whopping 13 saves in 29 games, while putting together an equally-impressive 6-2 record and 2.02 ERA. According to Ermer, Corbett has a great attitude and should help the Twins, especially if worked frequently.

CUBBAGE, Michael Lee 'Mike' 3B No. 26

Born July 21, 1950, in Charlottesville, Virginia. Height: 6 ft. Weight: 180 lbs. Bats left, throws right. Married. Lives in Charlottesville.

Bothered by a lower back problem over the first part of last season, third baseman Mike Cubbage went on the disabled list in late May. Upon his return, Cubbage found a hot-handed John Castino holding sway at third and the incumbent of three years at the position for the Twins was never able to fully reclaim his job. Mike saw quite a little action at third and as designated-hitter from that point, plus a little activity at both first and second bases, but was never completely able to shake off the effects of his back miseries. He holds the team's defensive record for third basemen as he fielded .971 in 1978, but it was in the field that his back caused him most of his problems in '79. Cubbage was able to hold his own with the bat in spite of those problems, although for the first time in his six-year career he posted a big league average lower than that of the season preceding.

DOUGLAS, Stephen Maxwell 'Steve' OF No. 49

Born January 17, 1957, in Alexandria, Virginia. Height: 5 ft., 11 in. Weight: 182 lbs. Bats and throws righthanded. Married. Lives in Alexandria.

After a slow start, outfielder Steve Douglas came on strong over the last half of the 1979 Southern League season. He batted at a better-than-.330-clip from early June until mid-August and was named the league's 'Player of the Week' for July 23-29. Douglas was the Most Valuable Player in the California League in 1978, his first full season back after a serious throwing hand injury that sidelined him for virtually all of 1976. An infielder prior to that injury, Steve has become an accomplished outfielder, placing sixth defensively among Southern loop outfielders last year. In the fall, Douglas batted .243 for the Clearwater Twins of the Florida Instructional League. Scouted by Ed Dunn, Steve was the Twins' third choice in the June 4, 1975, free-agent draft. Douglas has logged collegiate time at both the University of Florida and Northern Virginia Community College.

EDWARDS, David Leonard 'Dave' OF No. 33

Born February 24, 1954, in Los Angeles, California. Height: 6 ft. Weight: 177 lbs. Bats and throws righthanded. Single. Lives in Los Angeles.

A fine defensive outfielder, Dave Edwards showed big league power as a hitter, too, in his rookie 1979 season in the major leagues. In fact, Edwards had the only grand-slam homerun by a Twin during the season, connecting off Jim Clancy in Toronto on July 15, to seal a win for the Twins. Dave also had one of the three 2-homer games by a Twin in '79, June 26, vs. Milwaukee. Edwards' older brother, Mike, beat him to the major leagues, coming up to stay in 1977, but Dave outhit Mike, the Oakland second baseman, by 16 points in the brothers' first full season together in the bigs. This season, it may be an Edwards threesome, as Mike's twin brother, Marshall, batted .273 as an outfielder for Milwaukee's Vancouver farm in the AAA Pacific Coast League last year. A fine golfer when he finds the time, Dave attended Los Angeles City Community College during his earlier off-seasons, but last winter he divided his time between the Caguas club of the Puerto Rican League and Licey of the Dominican League.

ERICKSON, Roger Farrell 'Pudge' P No. 19

Born August 30, 1956, in Springfield, Illinois. Height: 6 ft., 3 in. Weight: 190 lbs. Bats and throws righthanded. Single. Lives in Springfield.

Surgery to relieve pressure on the ulnar nerve in his pitching elbow last October 1 primed Roger Erickson to bounce back from a disappointing 1979 'sophomore' season and to return to his outstanding rookie form of 1978. After tying for the top win-mark among major league rookie pitchers in '78, Erickson got off to a miserable 0-7 start last season, setting a record for losses by a Twins' pitcher at the start of a season. The first 6 of those losses came before June 17, when he was optioned to Toledo. He pitched a 1-0 shutout in his first start for the Mud Hens, but then went on the disabled list until July 25. All told, he was able to make five impressive starts in the International League before he returned to the Twins on August 5. Roger pitched much more effectively for the Twins from that point. In his 13 appearances before going to Toledo, Erickson posted an ERA of 7.29. In 11 post-Toledo outings, he went 4.15. His arm continued to bother him, however, and post-season surgery proved necessary.

FELTON, Terry Lane P No. 21

Born October 29, 1957, in Texarkana, Texas. Height: 6 ft., 2 in. Weight: 185 lbs. Bats and throws righthanded. Single. Lives in Baker, Louisiana.

Eighth in the International League's ERA tables in each of the last two seasons, young righthander Terry Felton got a two-inning big league baptism against Milwaukee last September 28, and retired all six men he faced. With the experience of four professional seasons under his belt before he turned 22, Felton tied for second in shutouts (3) in the International League last year, while placing third in starts (28) and strikeouts. Possessed of possibly the strongest right arm in the Twins' organization, Terry pitched a two-hitter and retired the last 14 batters he faced in beating Pawtucket, 5-0, August 26. Over the off-season, Felton got a taste of winter ball with the Mayaguez Indians of the Puerto Rican Winter League, going 3-5, 4.58.

Born May 16, 1957, in Charlotte, North Carolina. Height: 6 ft., 4 in. Weight: 226 lbs. Bats and throws righthanded. Single. Lives in Charlotte.

The first baseman on Topps' Class A All-Star Team of 1979, big Mark Funderburk has come into his own as a power prospect in the last two seasons. The California League's 'Player of the Month' last August, Funderburk was voted in a season's end managerial poll as the league's 'Most Dangerous Hitter' and the 'Hitter with the Best Power.' It goes without saying that Mark was a member of the California's All-Star Team, as he led the circuit in homeruns, was third in runs-batted-in and placed seventh in the batting race. In a seven-game stretch in late June, he belted seven homeruns. Scouted by Red Robbins, Funderburk attended North Carolina's Louisburg Junior College for a year before signing with the Twins after the club made him their 16th selection in the free-agent draft of June, 1976. An outfielder at the time, it wasn't until 1978 that Mark was converted to first base. It was a busy off-season for Funderburk this year. After competing in the Florida Instructional League with the Clearwater Twins last fall, Mark joined Tony Oliva's Torices club of the Colombian Winter League and broke in with a bang . . . five homeruns in his first five games!

GOODWIN, Danny Kay — 1B No. 25

Born September 2, 1953, in St. Louis, Missouri. Height: 6 ft., 1 in. Weight: 205 lbs. Bats left, throws right. Single. Lives in Peoria, Illinois.

Although he hit a grand-s am homerun in the Twins' first spring exhibition of 1979, big Danny Goodwin's efforts were hampered by a bad foot that spring and he was shipped to the Ogden club of the Pacific Coast League. By mid-July, the foot was healed and Goodwin was making a shambles of the triple-crown race in the PCL, so he was repurchased by the Twins when Craig Kusick was released at the All-Star break. The move immediately paid dividends as Danny added remarkable extra-base strength to the Twins' lefthand DH spot, showing especially good power toward left-centerfield. Defensively, Goodwin also lent a valuable hand, spelling Ron Jackson effectively in eight games at first base, the position Danny had played at Ogden. Goodwin and Jackson had come to the Twins together, in fact, in the December 4, 1978, trade with California for outfielder Dan Ford. The batting champion of the Texas League in 1978, the one-time catcher was in the thick of the batting race and leading the Coast loop in homeruns and rbi when he joined the Twins last summer. The only player ever to be the nation's first pick in the free-agent draft on two different occasions, Danny earned his BS in zoology from Louisiana's Southern University in 1975, before he signed with the Angels for a reported six-figure bonus. Hoping to make 1980 his year to fully establish himself as a productive major leaguer, Goodwin prepped during the off-season with the Ponce Lions of the Puerto Rican Winter League.

HARTZELL, Paul Franklin, Jr. — P No. 18

Born November 2, 1953, in Bloomsburg, Pennsylvania. Height: 6 ft., 5 in. Weight: 200 lbs. Bats and throws righthanded. Married. Lives in Dana Point, California.

Used in relief on only two occasions in 1979, Paul Hartzell's impressive spring training work for the Twins moved him into a virtually exclusive starting role for the first time in his four-season major league career. Shoulder trouble, a strained biceps tendon, reared up, however, and Hartzell was obliged to go on the disabled list on August 2, and was used only sparingly after that. His top performance of the year came vs. Chicago on July 1, when he pitched the 10-inning route to edge the White Sox on an 8-hitter, 2-1. Paul came to the Twins from California, with pitcher Brad Havens and outfielders Dave Engle and Ken Landreaux, in the Rod Carew trade of February 3, 1979.

JACKSON, Darrell Preston — P No. 31

Born April 3, 1956, in Los Angeles, California. Height: 5 ft., 10 in. Weight: 150 lbs. Bats both, throws left. Married. Lives in Los Angeles.

The first cut in 1979 spring training, lefty Darrell Jackson didn't take long to prove by his work in the International League that he belonged in the major leagues. So, on June 17, he was recalled to pitch lefthand relief for the Twins, as well as to take an occasional starting assignment. At Toledo, Jackson started out brilliantly, winning his first 5 decisions . . . including a one-hit, 2-0 victory over Tidewater, May 3 . . . while posting an 0.92 ERA. He was leading the league in strikeouts when recalled by the Twins. Darrell played high school ball with Baltimore's Eddie Murray and San Diego's Ozzie Smith, and played on a Connie Mack League team with Chicago's Chet Lemon, before he enrolled at Arizona State University for whom he was a member of three College World Series entrants, including the 1977 National Champions, for whom he pitched a 3-hit shutout over South Carolina in the semi-finals. The year before, a serious cut on his throwing hand made it appear for a time that Jackson would never pitch again. Darrell overcame that setback to become one among a select circle of ballplayers who've played in the major leagues in their first professional season. Last winter, Jackson was a Puerto Rican League standout, hurling for the Mayaguez club, and leading the league's pitchers with a 1.33 ERA and an .833 win-percentage, on a 5-1 record.

JACKSON, Ronnie 'Papa Jack' 1B No. 15

Born May 9, 1953, in Birmingham, Alabama. Height: 6 ft. Weight: 210 lbs. Bats and throws righthanded. Married. Lives in Fairfield, Alabama.

What had been diagnosed as a bruised left wrist when Ron Jackson missed a month of play for the California Angels in 1978, turned out instead to be a fractured hamate bone. This was discovered in October 10, 1979, surgery after Jackson had complained of pain in the wrist for virtually the entire season. Even so, Ronnie was able to provide a power 'plus' for the Twins in '79, after an off-season trade that had brought him from California with slugger Danny Goodwin for outfielder Dan Ford. Jackson's 40 doubles were the most by a Twin since Zoilo Versalles set the club record of 45 in 1965. And, with his successful wrist surgery, Ron's homerun output is certain to move into the area counted upon by club officials when they made the trade with California. A stand-up hitter who crowds the plate, Jackson was hit by pitches nine times last season to lead the Twins. A third baseman for most of his career until 1978, Ron played exclusively at first base for the Twins last year and established a club fielding record for the position in doing so . . . his .9943-figure exceeding Rod Carew's 1977 mark of .9937. Jackson also set a club record for first basemen by participating in 175 doubleplays over the season. Ron and Marva Jackson became parents of their second child and first daughter when Lashandra DeAndrenetta joined the family last December 23.

KOOSMAN, Jerome Martin 'Jerry' P No. 36

Born December 23, 1943, in Appleton, Minnesota. Height: 6 ft., 2 in. Weight: 218 lbs. Bats right, throws left. Married. Lives in Chaska, Minnesota.

Voted the American League's 'Comeback Player of the Year' by UPI in 1979, lefty Jerry Koosman embellished the honor by winning almost seven times as many games for the Twins as he'd won for the New York Mets the year before! In recognition of his great season, Koosman was named by the Twin Cities Baseball Writers as winner of the Joe Haynes Award, which is given annually to the top Twin pitcher of the season, and he was rewarded by Twins' president Calvin Griffith with a three-year contract, the numbers of which are at least the equal of any prior contract entered into by the Twins. Third in the American League in victories and one of just five major league 20-game winners in 1979, Jerry led Twins' pitchers in wins, ERA, starts (36), innings-pitched, shutouts (2) and strikeouts, while setting a club record by picking 14 runners off base. In winning 20 games, Koosman joined Tommy John as the 17th and 18th pitchers ever to turn the trick in both the American and National Leagues . . . and just the 5th and 6th such since 1924! Their predecessors included Clark Griffith, Cy Young, Joe McGinnity, Chick Fraser, Red Donahue, Jack Powell, Bill Dinneen, Jack Chesbro, Jesse Tannehill, Al Orth, Wild Bill Donovan, Carl Mays, Andy Messersmith, Gaylord Perry, Bill Singer and Ferguson Jenkins. Jerry's 1956 career strikeouts tie him with Whitey Ford for 37th place on the all-time list. Kooz will become the 34th hurler to total 2000 strikeouts, passing Red Ruffing (1987), John Clarkson (1998) and Billy Pierce (1999). In 1980, Jerry also figures to catch Catfish Hunter (2012), Dazzy Vance (2045) and Bobo Newsom (2082), while possibly reaching the marks of Eddie Plank (2112) and Twins' coach Camilo Pascual (2167). The fourteenth Minnesota native to play for the Twins, Koosman fanned 8 batters on three different occasions for the Twins in '79, but he notched 13 on several occasions for the Mets and once K'd 15 in a 10-inning National League game. Jerry has 28 shutouts for his career, including two in 1979 (plus one he shared with Mike Marshall). The most memorable of those came on the last day of the season when he stopped Milwaukee, 5-0, to win his 20th, although he tossed a two-hitter to beat Kansas City at the Met, September 4, 5-1. Koosman became a Twin on December 8, 1978, coming from the Mets in exchange for pitchers Greg Field and Jesse Orosco.

RANDALL, Robert Lee 'B. R.' 2B No. 32

Born June 10, 1948, in Norton, Kansas. Height: 6 ft., 3 in. Weight: 180 lbs. Bats and throws righthanded. Married. Lives in Albuquerque, New Mexico.

A bulwark of a Twins' infield which has sparked a turnover of 740 doubleplays over his four seasons with the club, Bobby Randall was in the middle of 48 of the Twins' 162-game league-record of 203 twin-killings in 1979. This was in spite of the fact that Randall's playing time was reduced considerably during the season by Rob Wilfong's emergence into stardom. Bobby himself has been involved in 327 doubleplays in his tenure with the club. Adding to his value is the fact that Randall is a contact-type, 'move 'em along' kind of hitter who has averaged just one strikeout for every 13 times at bat during his four seasons in the American League. Bobby enjoyed the first 4-hit game of his career, in fact, when he collected a double and three singles off Cy Young Award-winner Mike Flanagan in a game at Baltimore, last June 4. With Glenn Borgmann, Dave Goltz and Craig Kusick now departed, Randall and Butch Wynegar are the oldest Twins in point of service, each dating back to the start of the 1976 season. A graduate of Kansas State University, Bobby is an off-season school teacher in Albuquerque.

REDFERN, Peter Irvine 'Red' P No. 17

Born August 25, 1954, in Glendale, California. Height: 6 ft., 2 in. Weight: 190 lbs. Bats and throws righthanded. Married. Lives in Sylmar, California.

After pitching in relief just three times in his first three seasons with the Twins, hardthrowing Pete Redfern appeared to find his niche in the long-relief role for the club in '79. Although manager Gene Mauch started Redfern on six scattered occasions, he came to rely on Pete more and more in early signs of trouble, and time and again the righthander was able to hold the tide until 'Mike Marshall time.' Redfern won his first five decisions, four of them in relief, and wasn't beaten until July 26. He got the only save of his career when he and Darrell Jackson combined to blank Jack Morris in Detroit, 3-0, July 11. Pete's overpowering fastball helped him to two of his '79 victories, as he fanned 9 in a 7-inning start against Toronto on July 22, and then came back with a career-high 10 strikeouts in a 6-inning start against California, August 5. All his other wins were in relief, as were two of his losses. One of a rare group of ballplayers who've never played below AAA ball, Redfern was the Twins' and the country's first choice in the secondary phase of the January 7, 1976, free-agent draft.

RIVERA, Jesus, Jr. 'Bombo' OF No. 9

Born August 2, 1952, in Ponce, Puerto Rico. Height: 5 ft., 10 in. Weight: 195 lbs. Bats and throws righthanded. Married. Lives in Ponce.

Extremely valuable in the Gene Mauch scheme of things as a righthand platoon player, popular Bombo Rivera has turned in two fine seasons for the Twins since his purchase from the Montreal organization on October 26, 1977. Last year, although playing just half the time, Rivera led Twins' outfielders in assists . . . in fact, only five American Leaguers exceeded his total of 12. Bombo started slowly with the bat in '79, but starting on June 23 he batted at a .308-clip. He took especial delight in facing Toronto pitching, as he rocked the Blue Jays for 8 hits in 14 trips, .571! With two full seasons as a Twin, plus a season and a half with Montreal, Rivera becomes eligible for major league pension benefits this year on September 4. Bombo was one of eight Twins who played for Mayaguez in the Puerto Rican Winter League during the last off-season. He batted .270.

LANDREAUX, Kenneth Francis 'K.T.' OF No. 44

Born December 22, 1954, in Los Angeles, California. Height: 5 ft., 11 in. Weight: 170 lbs. Bats left, throws right. Married. Lives in Compton, California.

The Twins' official batting leader last year, speedy outfielder Ken Landreaux justified almost single-handedly the Rod Carew trade of February 3, 1979, especially by his play over the last half of the season. Batting just .270 through June 30, Landreaux batted .381 over the months of July and August to wind up in 14th place among American League hitters. He led the Twins in basehits and in 'game-winning-rbi,' 12, while coming in second only to Roy Smalley in homeruns and rbi. Rob Wilfong edged him by one in stolen bases. Ken had two 4-hit games during the season, and he got a homerun, a triple and a double to drive home six runs and spark a 10-5 win over Boston, August 20. His favorite opponent was Toronto, against whom he went 21-for-49, .429, with 17 runs-batted-in! An All-American at Arizona State, Landreaux was named the 'Minor League Player of the Year' in 1977 by The Sporting News. In May of that year, he was cited as 'Player of the Month' in the Texas League by Topps Chewing Gum.

MACKANIN, Peter, Jr. 'Pete' 2B-SS No. 14

Born August 1, 1951, in Chicago, Illinois. Height: 6 ft., 2 in. Weight: 190 lbs. Bats and throws righthanded. Married. Lives in Ste. Rose, Quebec, Canada.

Acquired on December 7, 1979, in a trade with Philadelphia for pitcher Paul Thormodsgard, infielder Pete Mackanin is no stranger to Twins' manager Gene Mauch. Mackanin was Montreal's regular second baseman in 1975 and '76, playing the first of those seasons under Mauch and the second under Twins' coach Karl Kuehl. Pete set an Expos' club record for homeruns by a second baseman in '75, a fact which had a great deal to do with Mauch's desire to obtain his services. Gene has hopes that Mackanin will not only provide the Twins with needed utility help in the infield, but that he might also help the club with some long-ball punch in the righthand designated-hitter role. Pete began his career in the Texas system when that club was still based in Washington. He was the then-Senators' fourth choice in the free-agent draft of June 5, 1969, after starring at Brother Rice High School in Chicago. It was when he was up with the Rangers at the tail end of the 1974 season that Mackanin first made an impression on Twins' fans. With two out in the 9th inning at the Met on October 1, that year, Dave Goltz had allowed just a controversial 1st-inning single to Toby Harrah. Then, Mackanin came to the plate and promptly took the official scorer off the hook by rifling a triple to leftcenter field . . . Pete's only hit in the majors that year! After that season, he was traded with pitcher Don Stanhouse to Montreal for outfielder Willie Davis. The Phillies acquired Mackanin on waivers, September 5, 1978. He was on Philadelphia's disabled list for most of the 1979 season with bone chips in his right elbow. After three pinch-hitting appearances, Pete was placed on the disabled list on April 27, and underwent surgery on May 21. He was returned to the active roster on September 1. To strengthen the arm, he played winter ball with the Zulia club in Venezuela and batted .300. The shortstop on Topps' AAA All-Star Team while with Spokane in 1973, and an American Association All-Star in 1978, Pete has earned off-season college credits at the University of Illinois, Chicago Circle Campus.

MARSHALL, Michael Grant 'Mike' P No. 28

Born January 15, 1943, in Adrian, Michigan. Height: 5 ft., 10 in. Weight: 180 lbs. Bats and throws right-handed. Married. Lives in Shorewood, Minnesota.

The man who has forged new horizons for relief pitchers, Mike Marshall wrote another chapter to his legendary career in 1979 when he was named by The Sporting News as co-winner of the American League's 'Fireman of the Year' Award with Texas' Jim Kern. That's an honor Marshall had previously won on two occasions in the National League, in 1973 and '74. Strictly the 'stopper' of the Twins' bullpen crew, Mike appeared in a league-record 90 games last year, 89 of them in relief . . . also a loop mark. Wilbur Wood held the records, 88 and 86 respectively, set with Chicago in 1968. Marshall finished 84 of his games in '79, which is a major league record . . . one more than Mike's total for the 1974 Los Angeles Dodgers. His 32 saves were a personal high, and his 42 fireman points (wins plus saves) established a club record. Ron Perranoski had the previous Twins' mark in this respect, 41, in 1970. Marshall, in fact, could eclipse another Perranoski club record this year. Mike has 53 saves as a Twin, 22 short of Perranoski's total of 1968-71. Marshall is 23rd all-time among major league pitchers in game-appearances. He needs five appearances in 1980 to tie one-time knuckleballer Eddie Fisher at 690, and then should pass Early Wynn (691), Eppa Rixey (692), Bob Miller (694), Grover Cleveland Alexander (696), Pud Galvin (697), Stu Miller (704), Johnny Klippstein (711), Clay Carroll (731), Ron Kline (736), Perranoski (737) and Warren Spahn (750), to wind up the season in 11th place. The only actives ahead of Mike are Rollie Fingers (701), Jim Kaat (718), Sparky Lyle (747) and Darold Knowles (763). For a single season, Marshall holds the record for appearances in each league, coming in 106 times in his Cy Young Award season with the Dodgers in '74. Holder of a doctorate in exercise physiology, Mike serves as a consultant in his field in the off-season, which he now spends in Minnesota after moving with his wife and daughters from Michigan last spring. In-season and out, Marshall is also the Twins' player representative. In addition, Mike represents American League players on the executive board of the Players' Association.

TWINS' TRAINER

One of the most experienced and yet one of the youngest trainers in major professional sports, Dick Martin has been serving the needs of Twins' players since 1972, when he worked a season under the late George 'Doc' Lentz before taking over as chief trainer in 1973. Born July 8, 1949, and christened Richard Dudley Martin (his players are especially fond of the 'Dudley' part), Dick's approach to the art of training has been a dedicated one ever since he first entered Lynchburg College, in his hometown in Virginia, to begin studies toward his BA in the field. He procrastinated just enough to earn a varsity letter in cross-country at Lynchburg and then went on to Indiana University for a year of post-graduate work. Martin became trainer for the Lynchburg Twins of the class A Carolina League in 1971, and was in the bigs a year later! Dick makes his home in Melbourne, Fla., where he met his pretty wife, Diane. They have two children. Laura Beth is 5, and Tyler David will be 3 in August. Martin is a firm disciple of conditioning and spends his off-seasons doing a good deal of basketball officiating. He's also been known to wet a line or two, and he's honed his golf game down into the low 80's.

MOORE, David Michael 'Dave' P No. 30

Born September 19, 1954, in Lexington, Kentucky. Height: 6 ft., 2 in. Weight: 185 lbs. Bats and throws righthanded. Single. Lives in Lexington.

Selected last December by the Twins off the roster of Cincinnati's Indianapolis farm of the class AAA American Association, righthander Dave Moore came into professional baseball as the Reds' no. 7 pick in the free-agent draft of June, 1972. Moore first caught the eye of professional scouts when he pitched his Lexington team to the Kentucky State Babe Ruth Championship in 1968. In his first pro season, he combined with a teammate on a 4-1, no-hit victory over the Twins' Melbourne affiliate in the Florida East Coast League, August 10, 1972. A starter almost exclusively, Dave led the Cincinnati system with 18 wins in 1977, 10 in the Eastern League and 8 in the American Association.

MORALES, Jose Manuel — C — No. 34

Born December 30, 1944, in Fredericksted, St. Croix, Virgin Islands. Height: 6 ft. Weight: 195 lbs. Bats and throws righthanded. Married. Lives in Bayamon, Puerto Rico.

Although listed on the Twins' roster as a catcher, Jose Morales' position with the club over the past two seasons can best be described as 'bat.' He's been the club's primary righthand pinch-hitter and designated-hitter. In 1978, Morales led all league DH's with 100 or more at-bats with his .323-figure. That year, too, Jose set a Twins' club record of 14 pinch-hits. For this reason, manager Gene Mauch prefers to keep Morales available for hitting duties. Hence, Jose has played just five games in the field in his two Twins' seasons . . . at first base on April 12 and 17, 1978, and August 14, 1979, for a total of 9 innings; in leftfield for 2 innings, May 14, 1978; and behind the plate for an inning, August 4, 1978. Last season, Morales batted .270 as a designated-hitter, which was 12th-best in the loop. For the second-straight year, he was used as a pinch-hitter on 52 occasions (only Don Mincher, 64, in 1962, and Sandy Valdespino, 56, in 1965, have been used more often in a season by the Twins), to increase his career pinch-hitting record to 81 hits in 298 trips, .272. With Montreal in 1976, Jose set major league records for pinch-hitters of 25 hits and 78 at-bats. Morales is a year-round ballplayer, performing for the past several winters with the Mayaguez Indians of the Puerto Rican League. Jose's first game-appearance of 1980 will mark his 200th American League contest.

NORWOOD, Willie — OF No. 24

Born November 7, 1950, in Green County, Alabama. Height: 6 ft. Weight: 190 lbs. Bats and throws right-handed. Married. Lives in Long Beach, California.

Blessed with speed and power, Willie Norwood seemed to come just an eye-lash away from capitalizing on those talents in 1979. Through May 22, he was the club's starting centerfielder and showed excellent ground-covering ability. When the Twins began to falter in mid-May after their impressive 22-8 start, manager Gene Mauch made some lineup changes and Norwood was destined for utility duty for the rest of the season, filling in at each of the outfield positions and taking an occasional turn as a designated-hitter or pinch-hitter. He proved to be one of the team's best pinch-hitters, in fact, hitting .357 in that role. One of the many discoveries of Twins' scout Jess Flores, Sr., Willie has stolen 141 bases in his eight-season professional career and has been nailed just 47 times, a remarkable 75% success ratio!

POWELL, Hosken — OF No. 10

Born May 14, 1955, in Selma, Alabama. Height: 6 ft., 1 in. Weight: 185 lbs. Bats and throws lefthanded. Single. Lives in Pensacola, Florida.

An unusual injury derailed Hosken Powell at the start of the 1979 season, but the Twins' slender rightfielder came back strongly to post impressive sophomore statistics in the American League. On April 2, while swinging at a pitch in batting practice before an exhibition game with the Pittsburgh Pirates at Orlando's Tinker Field, Powell snapped the hamate bone in his right wrist. In mid-May, he was dispatched to Toledo for a ten-day stay to play himself back into shape. On his first day back, May 17, in Kansas City, Hosken got two hits, and the next day he picked up four! All told, he was to come up with 28 multiple-hit games, including another 4-hit job . . . vs. Chicago, September 27. The White Sox were his specialty during the season, in fact, as he belted Sox' pitching at a .407-clip. Last winter, for the second straight off-season, Powell, a discovery of Twins' scout Fred Waters, played for the Mayaguez Indians of the Puerto Rican League.

Born November 25, 1958, in Cabimas, Venezuela. Height: 6 ft. Weight: 160 lbs. Bats and throws right-handed. Single. Lives in Cabimas.

Recommended by scout Hank Izquierdo after the demise of the Inter-American League, young right-hander Wally Sarmiento signed with the Twins' Orlando affiliate last July 19, and immediately began to make his presence known in the Southern League. Manager Roy McMillan used Sarmiento exclusively as a starter during his six weeks with the O-Twins, and the Venezuelan's consistently positive performances could result in his becoming the 'steal' of the year. Wally attended Zulia University in Cabimas for a time, but became a professional ballplayer when he signed with the Cincinnati organization in 1977, after having been named as the 'Best Amateur Pitcher' in the state of Zulia, Venezuela. He pitched two seasons in the class A Northwest League and then was given his release in April of 1979. He then signed on with the Maracaibo club of the Inter-American, a league that had been formed over that winter as a new entry in the AAA ranks. In his two seasons in the Reds' organization, Sarmiento was a reliefer, making only 3 starts out of 40 pitching appearances. He went back to relief during the recent off-season and was named to the Venezuelan Winter League's All-Star Team for his fine pitching for the Magallanes club. Wally was 3-1, with 3 saves and a 3.21 ERA, which ranked him tenth in the league.

SERUM, Gary Wayne P No. 20

Born October 24, 1956, in Fargo, North Dakota. Height: 6 ft., 1 in. Weight: 180 lbs. Bats and throws righthanded. Married. Lives in Alexandria, Minnesota.

After an extremely promising 1978 season, 1979 turned out to be a year of great disappointment for righthander Gary Serum. He was used only sparingly throughout the season. In fact, when Paul Hartzell came off the disabled list on August 26, Serum was dispatched to Toledo to make room on the roster. Gary made two starts for the Mud Hens and was back with the Twins on September 3. His first outing after returning was a 6-inning, 1-run relief stint against Texas, September 14, proving that Serum profited from his 13 innings of International League work. A Minnesota native in all respects except that the hospital in which he was born happened to be located across the Red River in North Dakota, Gary was determined to keep himself back on track last winter and so signed on with the Mayaguez Indians of the Puerto Rican Winter League.

SHEEHAN, Terrence Michael 'Terry' P No. 51

Born March 2, 1954, in Boise, Idaho. Height: 6 ft., 3 in. Weight: 195 lbs. Bats left, throws right. Single. Lives in Boise.

Tall righthand pitcher Terry Sheehan got off to a great start in the International League last year, winning his first five decisions and running up an 8-1 log by June 9, before misfortune took over. Sheehan held on, however, to lead his Toledo pitching mates in victories at season's end. He's now had three impressive seasons in the Twins' organization since he was picked up as a free agent on the advice of ex-Twins' slugger Harmon Killebrew, who's in the insurance business in Sheehan's hometown of Boise. Terry had played a season with the Seattle club of the Northwest League before that team disbanded when the American League moved into the city. Sheehan has been almost exclusively a starting pitcher since entering the pros as a non-drafted player after his college days at Azusa Pacific. In fact, he's made only nine relief appearances in his four professional seasons. Terry's father, Ned, played several seasons in the minor leagues as a third baseman.

SMALLEY, Roy Frederick, III — SS No. 5

Born October 25, 1952, in Los Angeles, California. Height: 6 ft., 1 in. Weight: 190 lbs. Bats both, throws right. Married. Lives in Manhattan Beach, California.

Over the first half of the 1979 season, shortstop Roy Smalley may have been the most dominating player the Twins have ever had in their lineup. Only Rod Carew's great 1977 season and Harmon Killebrew's magnificent production in 1969 could rival the day-by-day contribution Smalley made to the Twins' cause through the month of June. Roy tailed off with the bat after June 30, but the aura of leadership he'd established on the club to that point, plus his continuing remarkable defensive strengths, helped keep the Twins in the thick of the American League West race until the last week of the season. Smalley was the runaway choice as the American League's shortstop on the mid-season All-Star Team. He received 2,572,331 votes, fifth-highest total in the league. He was also named as shortstop on all the post-season American League All-Star squads and represented the Twins and the A. L. in the first-ever All-Star series in Japan in November. For the second season in a row, Roy was voted the Twins' Most Valuable Player by the Twin Cities Chapter of the Baseball Writers. He set a couple of records that should stand for a long time. In helping the Twins set a league 162-game record of 203 doubleplays, Smalley participated in 144. That beat the major league mark of 137 held by Bobby Wine of Montreal in 1970, and the American League record of 134, set by Lou Boudreau of the 1944 Cleveland Indians. Roy also had 572 assists over the season to beat the American League record of 570, held by Leo Cardenas of the 1969 Twins and Terrence Turner of the 1906 Indians. He led all big league shortstops in assists, putouts (296) and total chances (897) . . . the third straight year in which he led American League shortstops in doubleplays, assists and total chances. Smalley also tied Bob Allison for the third-longest hitting streak ever turned in by a Twin. He went 19 games from April 29 to May 20. Allison ran his streak in 1964. Only Ted Uhlaender (20) in 1969, and Lenny Green (24) in 1961, exceed that figure for the Twins. Roy had three 4-hit games over the season, getting ten total bases and scoring four runs in one of them . . . vs. Toronto, May 8, his lone 2-homer game of the season. He got three doubles in a game in Chicago, June 24, tying the club record. Smalley tied for the league-lead by playing in every one of the Twins' 162 games, and he led his teammates in five other offensive categories: at-bats, runs, homeruns, rbi and walks. Roy established Twins' shortstop records for games-played, homeruns, runs-batted-in and bases-on-balls, and for the second straight season, he led the shortstops in all classifications of professional baseball in homeruns.

SOFIELD, Richard Michael 'Rick' OF No. 12

Born December 16, 1956, in Cheyenne, Wyoming. Height: 6 ft., 1 in. Weight: 193 lbs. Bats left, throws right. Single. Lives in Morris Plains, New Jersey.

A broken wrist suffered by Hosken Powell gave Rick Sofield a chance to start the season with the Twins in '79, after he'd been slated for duty at Toledo. When Powell was ready to rejoin the Twins, Sofield, although he'd enjoyed a 4-hit game against California on April 18, was struggling. So, on May 16, he was sent to Toledo after all. Things still proved to be troublesome for Rick in the International League, and it wasn't until late July, in the Southern loop, that he began to get back into the groove. As a result, he was recalled by the Twins in September for a second chance to prove himself a big leaguer . . . and he didn't blow the chance! Sofield batted .400 for the Twins in September to wind up in the .300-circle for the season. He did a lot of that September hitting against Texas to post a .471-average against Ranger pitching. Rick was scouted by Ed Dunn and is one of seven first-draft-choices on the Twins' roster, along with Powell, Danny Goodwin, Ken Landreaux, Pete Redfern, Roy Smalley and Bob Veselic. It was that 'first-pick' situation that caused Sofield, an All-American high school selection in baseball and football, to pass up a football scholarship offer from Michigan, where he would've competed with Rick Leach for the starting quarterback job.

STANFIELD, Kevin Bruce 'Stan' P No. 40

Born December 19, 1955, in Huron, South Dakota. Height: 6 ft., 1 in. Weight: 195 lbs. Bats and throws lefthanded. Single. Lives in San Bernardino, California.

In three September relief appearances with the Twins last year, Kevin Stanfield showed signs of being the lefthand reliefer needed to round out the club's bullpen crew. Stanfield pitched as a starter during the entire 1979 International League season, just as he had in his previous AAA season, after beginning his professional career as a reliefer. At one point last season, Kevin won six games in a row, the sixth coming before the largest crowd to see a ballgame in Toledo in the '70s, 9,946, July 10. His best effort of the season, though, was a 5-0 blanking of Pawtucket on August 25, in which Stanfield held the Red Sox' farmhands to just one hit until they added a pair of bunt singles in the ninth. The lefty is a native of South Dakota, but moved to southern California with his family when he was just a tot. He was the Twins' seventh choice in the free-agent draft of January 7, 1976, after scout Jess Flores, Sr., liked what he saw of Kevin as a pitcher for San Bernardino Valley Junior College.

SULARZ, Guy Patrick — SS No. 1

Born November 7, 1955, in Minneapolis, Minnesota. Height: 5 ft., 11 in. Weight: 175 lbs. Bats and throws righthanded. Single. Lives in North Hollywood, California.

A Minnesota native, infielder Guy Sularz was drafted by the Twins last December 3, off the roster of the San Francisco Giants' Phoenix affiliate in the class AAA Pacific Coast League. An All-Los Angeles selection in both baseball and football as a high school athlete, Sularz was the Giants' tenth pick in the free-agent draft of June 5, 1974, as a pitcher-outfielder. His best position as a professional has been shortstop, however, and in 1978 he set a modern Pacific Coast League record of 131 doubleplays by a shortstop while leading the league at his position in fielding (.962), putouts (229) and assists (471).

VEGA, Jesus Anthony — 1B No. 37

Born October 14, 1955, in Bayamon, Puerto Rico. Height: 6 ft., 1 in. Weight: 190 lbs. Bats and throws righthanded. Single. Lives in Levittown Lakes, Puerto Rico.

The Most Valuable Player in the Puerto Rican League last winter, Jesus Vega played for the Arecibo team and led the circuit with 42 rbi, while coming in sixth in the league batting race at .286, tying for third in the home-run derby with 7, and stealing 17 bases in 19 attempts! In his five-season summer professional career, Vega has never finished with a batting average under .293, the figure which earned him sixth place in the International League's batting race last year . . . plus a look-see by the Twins in September. He was originally signed by the Milwaukee organization but came to the Twins in the minor league draft of December 6, 1977. An outfielder-first baseman when signed by the Brewers out of Puerto Rico's University Mundial, Jesus has been almost exclusively a first baseman since 1977. Vega was nosed out for the New York-Pennsylvania loop's batting crown by .0004 in 1975, and placed fifth in that league in 1976. He was fourth in the Midwest League in 1977, when he paced the circuit in games-played and basehits, while finishing second in homeruns and fifth in runs-batted-in. After a fine start in 1978, Jesus was sidelined when he fractured his right ankle in Montgomery on the Fourth of July. His impressive 1979 stats attest to his complete recovery from that injury. In 1974, Vega was a member of Puerto Rico's National Championship American Legion team, Monte Carlo Post No. 146 of Rio Piedras.

VERHOEVEN, John C. P No. 50

Born July 3, 1953, in Long Beach, California. Height: 6 ft., 5 in. Weight: 200 lbs. Bats and throws right-handed. Married. Lives in Santa Ana, California.

John Verhoeven, a veteran of previous American League service with California and Chicago, came to the Twins on April 2, 1979, from the White Sox' organization in exchange for pitcher John Sutton. A reliefer, Verhoeven was the backbone of manager Cal Ermer's bullpen crew at Toledo last year. He was third in the International League in game-appearances, fourth in games-finished (33) and fifth in saves. John was especially tough in June, with an ERA of 1.48, and July, when he went 0.92. Verhoeven attended Westmont College in Santa Barbara, California, for a time and then transferred to LaVerne College in suburban Los Angeles, where he caught the eye of the Angels who made him their twelfth selection in the free-agent draft of June, 1974. John earned a BA in physical education at LaVerne. After finishing the 1976 season and starting 1977 with the Angels, Verhoeven was traded with pitcher Don Kirkwood and infielder John Flannery to Chicago for ex-Twin Ken Brett on June 15, 1977. In finishing that season with the Sox, the tall righthander made a strong impression on the Twins when he pitched three scoreless innings against them in relief in Chicago on September 15.

VESELIC, Robert Michael 'Bob' P No. 39

Born September 27, 1955, in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. Height: 6 ft. Weight: 175 lbs. Bats and throws right-handed. Single. Lives in Walnut, California.

An All-Star selection in the Southern League last year, promising righthander Bob Veselic almost saw his big league chances snuffed out when he was involved in a serious auto accident shortly after the season in California. Fortunately, he wasn't injured severely, but he was obliged to pass up winter ball possibilities. It was Veselic's second brush with death as he was hit in the jaw by a line drive while pitching in the Midwest League in May of 1977. Bob led the Southern in starts (28), batters-faced (790) and strikeouts in 1979 . . . his 151 K's beating Terry Sheehan's 1978 Orlando record of 136. Veselic was the starting pitcher for the Southern All-Stars against the Atlanta Braves in Nashville, July 12, and pitched two scoreless innings. Bob was the Twins' first choice in the free-agent selections of January 7, 1976, after a standout career at California's Mt. San Antonio Junior College.

WARD, Gary Lamell 'Wally' OF No. 35

Born December 6, 1953, in Los Angeles, California. Height: 6 ft., 2 in. Weight: 207 lbs. Bats and throws righthanded. Married. Lives in Compton, California.

The similarity between Gary Ward's 1978 and '79 seasons in the International League is almost uncanny. For two seasons in a row, Ward led his Toledo teammates in games-played, at-bats, runs, hits, total bases (206), triples and stolen bases! But then, consistency has been a hallmark of Ward's career ever since he joined the Twins' organization on August 29, 1972, on the recommendation of scout Jess Flores, Sr., who scouted him as a pitcher-shortstop. Gary was unawed by big league competition in his September call-up last year, showing that after seven minor league seasons, the last three of them in triple-A, he's ready to play with the best. The big outfielder had an unusual season in certain respects at Toledo last summer. For one thing, his first nine homers came with at least one man on base. For another, Ward suffered a couple of freak injuries. He missed several games in mid-June when a contact lens cracked and scratched his cornea. Then, June 30, teammate Dennis Mantick was swinging a bat in the on-deck circle and the leaded doughnut flew off the end of the bat, bounced into the dugout and struck Gary on the chin, knocking him out.

WILFONG, Robert Donald 'Rob' 2B No. 7

Born September 1, 1953, in Pasadena, California. Height: 6 ft., 1 in. Weight: 185 lbs. Bats left, throws right. Married. Lives in Covina, California.

Winner of the Calvin Griffith Award as Most Improved Twin of 1979, slender Rob Wilfong was also the unofficial batting leader of the club, falling just 17 plate-appearances short of the qualifying necessity of 502. The 1979 season saw Wilfong come into his own as a 'complete' player, offensively and defensively. He led the league and set a Twins' record with his 25 sacrifices, and he also led the team with 10 sacrifice flies and 11 stolen bases. Rob's 22 bunt singles, a category not officially tabulated, most certainly led the league, and he now has a career total of 45 bunt hits. But the most significant offensive improvement shown by Wilfong was his homerun power. Told at the end of the 1978 season by manager Gene Mauch to get on a weight program, Rob pumped iron religiously all that winter. With his homerun-production multiplying nine times over in 1979, Wilfong didn't need to be told to take to the gym again last winter! Rob took particular delight against Detroit (.424) and Toronto (.412) pitching last year. In fact, he's .367 (22-for-60) against the Tigers for his career. For the first time in four seasons, Wilfong enjoyed an injury-free year in 1979. Teamed with Bobby Randall and Roy Smalley, Rob played a big part (92) in the 162-game league record the Twins set in doubleplays, 203. Until last June 27, vs. Milwaukee, Wilfong had never played any position but second base in his eight seasons as a professional. In that game, Mauch played Rob for an inning in centerfield in a strategic ploy. Similarly, on August 24, in New York, he played two innings in leftfield and, on September 18, in Chicago, Wilfong completed the circuit when he was officially listed as the rightfielder when he came into the game in the 10th inning on a 5-man infield set-up. Rob's played 279 games as an American League second baseman, however, averaging five chances per game with his good range in the field and posting an excellent career fielding-percentage of .977, while taking part in 169 doubleplays.

WYNEGAR, Harold Delano, Jr. 'Butch' C No. 16

Born March 14, 1956, in York, Pennsylvania. Height: 6 ft. Weight: 185 lbs. Bats both, throws right. Married. Lives in York.

In rebounding from his one bad year, catcher Butch Wynegar showed the stuff of which great players are made when he came back with the finest season of his career in 1979. Wynegar came to the Twins' training camp in '79 bristling with determination, and 10-lbs. lighter than he'd played the previous year. As a result, he got off to a great start, batting .290 as late as the Fourth of July. His hitting was timely all season long, too, as he contributed 10 'game-winning-rbi,' third on the club behind Ken Landreaux (12) and Glenn Adams (11). Against Milwaukee on September 29, Butch picked up the fourth 4-hit game of his career. He's always been a tough strike-out, but in '79 Wynegar led his teammates with a ratio of just one for every 14 at-bats. Butch batted .272 against lefthand pitching and .263 vs. righthanders last season to give him a remarkably equal career figure of .257 (359-for-1399) against southpaws, and .254 (159-for-625) vs. righties. The youngest player ever to perform in the Major League All-Star Game, Wynegar is an accomplished 'two-way' (offensive & defensive) player. He logged a career-low five passed balls last summer to allow the Twins to tie their club record of that number, set in 1966. And, Butch nailed 43 of the 100 runners who tried to steal on his pitchers. So, he's increased his percentage of shooting down would-be 'thieves' from 34% in his rookie year, to 40% in each of the next two seasons, to 43% in 1979. That gives Wynegar a four-year record of snuffing out 201 baserunners out of 520 aspirants, a top-notch career percentage of .387! In overall fielding statistics for catchers, Butch posted a .992-figure last year, second only to Texas' Jim Sundberg (.995), who's led the circuit for the past four seasons. Wynegar is an extremely durable player, as well. In his four seasons, Butch has caught 137, 142, 131 and 146 games. The major league record for most consecutive seasons of 100 or more games-caught is 13, set by the New York Yankees' Bill Dickey from 1929 to 1941. Dickey's streak also started in his rookie season.

ROOKIE DEFINITION

A new rookie rule with slightly more liberal standards than the previous regulation written in 1958 was put into effect beginning with the 1973 season. This definition provides that a player shall be considered a rookie if he has not exceeded 130 at-bats or 50 innings-pitched in a previous major league season or seasons, and if he has not accumulated more than 45 days on the active roster of a major league club or clubs during the period of the 25-man player limit (excluding time in military service).

ZAHN, Geoffrey Clayton 'Geoff' P No. 38

Born December 19, 1946, in Baltimore, Maryland. Height: 6 ft., 1 in. Weight: 175 lbs. Bats and throws lefthanded. Married. Lives in Eagan, Minnesota.

After winning his first three starts of 1979, veteran lefty Geoff Zahn came up with an inflammation of the left shoulder that put him out of action for the entire month of May. He lost his first start on returning, but then reeled off four straight victories to go into July with a 7-1 record. Except for one missed start in early August, Zahn experienced no further problems with the shoulder and went on to have probably his finest of three seasons with the Twins. He was especially tough against the New York Yankees, going 4-1 against them. Geoff passed Jack Kralick, Jim Merritt and Dick Stigman during 1979 to become the second-winningest lefthander in Twins' annals . . . behind Jim Kaat's 189. It was an arm problem that brought Zahn to the Twins in the first place. Released on that account by the Chicago Cubs following the 1976 season, Geoff asked for a spring trial with the Twins in '77. Manager Gene Mauch liked what he saw, signed the southpaw, and he's averaged 13 wins a season since! In fact, Zahn has been in the top ten among American League pitchers in ERA in each of the last two seasons. A one-time star at the University of Michigan, where he earned a BS in education, Zahn is a leader in the Fellowship of Christian Athletes and the Baseball Chapel movement.

ARROYO, Fernando 'Fred' P No. 52

Born March 21, 1952, in Sacramento, California. Height: 6 ft., 3 in. Weight: 195 lbs. Bats and throws righthanded. Married. Lives in Tucson, Arizona.

Last December 5, the Twins traded lefthand pitcher Jeff Holly to the Detroit Tigers' organization for righthander Fernando Arroyo in what could turn out to be the 'sleeper' deal of the year. Great things were expected of Arroyo when he spent the 1977 season as a member of the Tigers' starting rotation. A knee injury that required surgery that winter, however, derailed Fernando for a time, but last year he seemed to find the groove once again in an American Association season that was sandwiched around a one-month mid-season stint in relief for the Tigers. It's as a starter, though, that Arroyo's star has shown the brighter. Of his 60 big league games, 30, including 28 in that 1977 season, have been in starting roles. His last two seasons at Evansville have also been in regular rotation, and last year he was fourth among A. A. pitchers in ERA. He has nine major league complete games to his credit, including a 5-hit, 9-0, shutout over Toronto, June 15, 1977. Against the Twins, Fred, or Nando, as he's called, appeared once in relief in 1975, and in two reliefs and two starts in 1977, working a total of 11.1 innings and allowing 11 earned runs while going 0-2. Arroyo came into baseball as Detroit's tenth choice in the June, 1970, free-agent draft.

CAUGHEY, Wayne Howard — SS-2B — No. 55

Born February 2, 1954, in Brainerd, Minnesota. Height: 6 ft. Weight: 170 lbs. Bats left, throws right. Married. Lives in Brainerd.

A fractured right wrist in mid-May sidelined Wayne Caughey for the balance of the International League season in 1979, and, in turn, caused shortstop problems for the Toledo Mud Hens the rest of the way. A native of Brainerd, Minnesota, a town that also spawned pitching greats Chief Bender and Bullet Joe Bush, Caughey was first spotted by Twins' scout Angelo Giuliani as a high school standout, and then as shortstop for St. Cloud State University. Wayne then became the club's tenth selection in the free-agent draft of January 9, 1974. Caughey's strength at the plate is in moving runners along. He tied for the leadership in sacrifices in both the Midwest League (11) in 1975, and the International (16) in 1978.

CHISM, Thomas Raymond 'Spider' — 1B — No. 58

Born May 9, 1955, in Chester, Pennsylvania. Height: 6 ft., 1 in. Weight: 195 lbs. Bats and throws lefthanded. Single. Lives in Chester.

First baseman Tom Chism came to the Twins last December 6, in a trade with the Baltimore organization for third baseman Dan Graham. Chism has hit well at every stop along the professional trail, and last year he led his Rochester teammates in batting average, hits, doubles, total bases (182), runs-scored, runs-batted-in and 'game-winning-rbi' (5), while finishing second in the International League batting race, and being named to the league's All-Star squad. Tom finished third in that league in hitting in 1978, the only season in which he has not been named to his league's All-Star Team. He led the Florida State League in batting in his first season, and has never finished lower than seventh in any pro league. Chism was Topps' choice as 'Player of the Month' for May, 1977, in the Southern League, and again for August of 1978 in the International. He tied for the homerun leadership in the Southern in '77, a season in which he led the league's first basemen in fielding (.993) and also pitched a couple of innings. Tom played baseball only in his sophomore season in high school, but played both baseball and basketball at Brandywine Junior College in Wilmington, Delaware, and was drafted in the second round by the Milwaukee Brewers after his freshman season! A year later, in June of 1974, he was selected in the fourth round of the secondary phase by the Orioles but didn't sign until September. Chism played on two Pennsylvania State Babe Ruth Champions, and his 1972 team placed fourth in the national tournament. Tom's a twin in fact as well as in uniform, as he has a twin brother, Tim.

CRUZ, Cirilo 'Tommy' OF No. 54

Born February 15, 1951, in Arroyo, Puerto Rico. Height: 5 ft., 9 in. Weight: 165 lbs. Bats and throws lefthanded. Married. Lives in Arroyo.

Like Dave Edwards, Tommy Cruz comes from a family of three brothers in professional baseball. Unlike the Edwards brothers, though, the Cruz brothers are all outfielders and have all seen major league service. In fact, all three of the Cruz brothers were with St. Louis for all or part of the 1973 season. All three, moreover, started out in the Cardinals' system after being signed by scout Chase Riddle . . . Jose, the eldest who's now with Houston, in 1967; Tommy in 1969; and Hector (Heity), the youngest, and now with Cincinnati, in 1970. Tommy came to the Twins from the New York Yankees' organization in a Toledo-Columbus, AAA swap last December 13, in exchange for outfielder Dave Coleman. Cruz led the International League with 16 'game-winning-rbi' last season, was second in the league in doubles and fifth in the batting race. Tommy was traded by the Cardinals after the 1973 season to Texas for pitcher Sonny Siebert. He was sold to the Chicago White Sox' organization just before the start of the 1977 season, and then went to the Yankees following that season with first baseman Jim Spencer and pitcher Bob Polinsky for pitchers Stan Thomas and Ed Ricks.

DIERBERGER, George Francis C No. 56

Born August 2, 1956, in St. Paul, Minnesota. Height: 6 ft. Weight: 195 lbs. Bats and throws righthanded. Married. Lives in Brooklyn Center, Minnesota.

A sound mechanical catcher with a strong throwing arm, George Dierberger's bat also showed major league potential in a fine Midwest League season last year. A Twin Cities native, Dierberger played three seasons with the University of Minnesota and helped them into the College World Series in Omaha in 1977. Prior to that, George played baseball, basketball and football for Archbishop Brady High School in West St. Paul and was captain, MVP and All-Conference in all three sports . . . earning High School All-America honors in football! His dad, Sid, was a standout football player at St. John's University in Collegeville, Minnesota. Dierberger was signed as a free agent after his junior year at Minnesota by scout Angelo Giuliani, but is continuing studies for his degree in mass communications.

Born November 30, 1956, in San Diego, California. Height: 6 ft., 3 in. Weight: 210 lbs. Bats and throws righthanded. Single. Lives in Manhattan Beach, California.

Big Dave Engle made the jump all the way from class A to AAA in 1979 and wound up in eighth place in the International League batting chase. Possessed with more power than his homerun-totals of the last two seasons would indicate, Engle is in a strong position to win an outfield or DH position with the Twins this year. A third baseman with Southern Cal's 1978 collegiate National Champions, Dave was switched to catcher by the California Angels in the Arizona Instructional League in the fall of 1978, before he was traded to the Twins in the Rod Carew deal. He was a third baseman (87 games) and designated-hitter last year with Toledo, but played rightfield last fall with the Clearwater Twins of the Florida Instructional League, where he batted .241, but led the league in doubles (16), games-played (46) and at-bats (174).

Born April 1, 1958, in Seattle, Washington. Height: 6 ft., 1 in. Weight: 185 lbs. Bats and throws lefthanded. Single. Lives in Seattle.

Signed by scout Lee Irwin out of Washington State University after the Twins had selected him tenth in the June, 1979, free-agent draft, lefty Mike Kinnunen was started right out in the tough, AA Southern League. The challenge didn't prove too much for Kinnunen, though, as he stepped right into the starting rotation for the Orlando Twins and posted fine statistics across the board. Mike proceeded from there to the Clearwater Twins of the Florida Instructional League last fall where, pitching almost entirely in relief, he had an 0-1 record, but 3 saves and a fine 2.83 ERA in 15 games.

SMITH, Raymond Edward 'Ray' C No. 57

Born September 18, 1955, in Glendale, California. Height: 6 ft., 1 in. Weight: 185 lbs. Bats and throws righthanded. Married. Lives in Vista, California.

A two-time All-PAC-8 shortstop at the University of Oregon, Ray Smith has been a catcher for just two and a half seasons, but has made rapid progress up the ladder in that short period of time. Although batting .358 a couple of months into his rookie season in the California League, Smith was sent down a notch to Elizabethton to make the switch to behind the plate, and he ended up being named the league's All-Star catcher! The next year, Ray was in AA, and then AAA. It was almost uncanny, in fact, the way Toledo manager Cal Ermer used Smith and Sal Butera in such a balanced way in '79 that their defensive stats were almost identical in all categories.
